Exclamatory sentences express strong emotions and end with an exclamation mark (!), and while they don't have a single universal formula, they often follow structures using "What" or "How" to add emphasis. A common formula is What + a/an + adjective + singular noun + verb! (e.g., "What a beautiful flower it is!"). Another is How + adjective/adverb/subject + verb! (e.g., "How beautiful the mountains are!"). Interjections like "Wow!" can also start an exclamatory sentence.

Common exclamatory sentence formulas

- What... (with a singular noun)
  - Formula: What + a/an + adjective + noun + (subject) + verb!
  - Example: What a lovely day it was!
- How...
